

Figure 3. Dorsal view – the hoof should be symmetrical. A line drawn between any two comparable points on the coronary band should be parallel to the ground. The hoof should be symmetrically related to the distal limb such that a vertical line should bisect the third metacarpal bone, the pastern and the hoof. (Courtesy of Dr Andy Parks).

Figure 4. Note divergence of growth rings below the coronet from the lateral to medial side.

